

FAASTeam presents:

Spring Flying Episode 4 Fly the Aircraft with Conscience

This webinar will cover all the events inside the aircraft on the first flight. We'll discuss the myriad of things going on and just how long and far you might venture from your home airport on this first flight of the season. YOU, the pilot, are the greatest variable in this plan. All of your calculations will not mean much if you cannot duplicate them in flight. That's why it's important to document your performance capability at least once a year, with a CFI on board. Fly at a typical mission weight, and try to duplicate or simulate mission density altitudes. That way, you'll know what you and your aircraft can do.
